Passengers

NORTH MOORHEAD, Minn., Oct. 30.—A Northwest Airlines plane en route from Chicago to Seattle crashed on a golf course here early today, carrying 14 of the 15 persons aboard to their deaths.

Only survivor of the crash was the ship's captain and pilot, Clarence Bates. He was critically injured and rushed to a hospital at Fargo, N. D., just across the State line from this town. Fargo was to have been the airliner's next scheduled stop.

The plane left Chicago at 9:25 o'clock last night. The crash occurred shortly after 2 a. m. So far as could be learned, the ship approached the golf course as if in trouble and intending to land, plummeted suddenly to the ground, and burst into flames.

First persons to reach the scene found Capt. Bates grievously hurt and too dazed to give any account of what had happened.

Apparently all aboard except Bates, including 12 passengers and the ship's first officer and stewardess, were killed in the crash. Pierce flames hampered rescuers seeking to remove the bodies.

The dead, as announced by Northwest Airlines in Chicago, were:

Alden Onsgard, first officer, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Bernice Blowers, stewardess, of Minneapolis.

R. W. Ramsey, passenger, of North Canton, O.

Ned Wells, passenger, of Fargo, N. D.

Ed King, passenger, of Fargo.

H. G. Klopp, passenger, of Spokane, Wash.

Tenant Purchase

Committee Meets

Yesterday the Bucks County Tenant Purchase Committee met in Doylestown to review Tenant Purchase applications and view farms which the approved applicants had selected.

It was pointed out by the County Supervisor that money has been made available for loans with which farm tenants and share renters and other farm workers may buy farms of their own at 3% interest and 40 years to repay under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenancy Act, which authorized the Farm Security Administration to make loans to capable, worthy tenant, sharecropper, and farm laborer families to enable them to buy their own lands.

These loans are made only to families which cannot get money to purchase land elsewhere, and are large enough to cover the cost of a family-type farm and expense of repairing the buildings thereon. Those eligible for such a loan must be American citizens and those who own the major part of their livestock, machinery and equipment are given preference.

All applicants are selected by a committee composed of three local farmers, who are: Amos Bryan, of R. D. 2, Perkasie; Russell E. Smith, Wycombe; and A. D. Lawrence of R. D. 2, Quakertown. This Bucks County Committee has already approved a number of applications and a number of farms are optioned.

LATEST NEWS

Received from International

Russians Report Gains

London, Oct. 30.—Ground-gaining Russian counter attacks on the crescent-shaped front before Moscow were reported today by the London office of the Soviet news agency.

The agency said Soviet forces continued to launch attacks on the Moshaisk and Maloyaroslavets sectors west and southwest of the Russian capital.

The Russians were declared to have occupied the outskirts of two towns while other units crossed the Nara River, 40 miles from Moscow.

Lewis Confers With Miners

Washington, Oct. 30.—John L. Lewis today began a White House-inspired conference with district heads of his United Mine Workers' Union which was expected to be climaxed by an order calling off the strike in coal mines owned by steel mills.

Lewis, it was widely believed, will call a truce in the four-day-old walk-out of the 53,000 miners under a peace formula proposed by President Roosevelt, and order the men back to work in the pits either tomorrow or Monday.

Stranded in British Isles

Washington, Oct. 30.—State Department sources today disclosed that nearly 2,000 American citizens who wish to return home are stranded in the British Isles.

Only 100 of 2,000 Americans who appealed to the American Embassy in London to help them obtain transportation home have been able to return to the United States in recent weeks.

The others are unable to return because of the difficulties of obtaining transportation on a belligerent ship, coupled with this Government's unwillingness to send an American vessel to repatriate them in face of Germany's flat refusal to grant safe conduct to such a ship.

Hitler Goes Forward

Berlin, Oct. 30.—Chancellor Hitler's armies were reported sweeping forward on two strategic fronts today—the Crimean Peninsula and the rich industrial Donetz basin.

In the Donetz basin, the high command announced, German forces advancing beyond Kharkov arrived at the upper reaches of the Donetz river.

And in the Crimea, other blitz units were declared to be "pursuing the defeated enemy" after breaking the resistance of Soviet rear guards.

German authorities said the Nazi forces in the Crimea, after breaking through Red army defenses yesterday, gave the Russians no chance to reform their ranks, but pushed relentlessly forward and established themselves in the peninsula proper.

The Soviets, according to Berlin military authorities, were attempting desperately to stem the Nazi sweep toward the great Russian Black Sea naval base of Sevastopol, but the Luftwaffe was reported mercilessly raiding every Soviet troop concentration.

It appeared the German high command was determined to take advantage of the more mild southern climate to seize the Crimea to prevent a possible Soviet flanking movement there.

THE COUNTY HOME

Doylestown Intelligencer, October 28, 1941

Every citizen hopes that he never will be unfortunate enough to have to go to the County Home. An ambition to avoid such an institution is natural and laudable but it has one bad result—it makes people shun all such places. And the Bucks County Home is well worth a visit by every citizen of the County.

Located a few miles from Doylestown, this efficient institution under the management of its most capable Superintendent, Dr. S. P. McIlhatten, is run with a dual purpose, and is eminently successful in attaining each objective. It is administered so as to provide first for the welfare and comfort of the inmates, but at the same time to avoid undue expense to the taxpayers of the county.

Possessing 365 acres of fine ground, the Home has the appearance of a successful farm—which it is. Its livestock includes 50 head of beef cattle, 50 cows and heifers, eight horses and a team of mules, plus pigs and chickens. All the beef and pork, the eggs and milk and chicken, the fresh vegetables and potatoes—all the staples eaten at the Home, in fact, except bread, butter and lamb, are raised right there on the grounds. And there is a surplus to sell at market. Some of it goes to the County Prison, in exchange for prison labor used in the fields when needed.

The Home is on the National Honor Roll of the National Dairy Association, and for the last two years has won awards from the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association for Exceptional Accomplishment in Dairy Herd Improvement. The yearly herd average is above 400 pounds of butter fat.

The buildings of the Home are administered with that same thorough efficiency that first strikes the visitor as he passes through the fields of the farm. The buildings are not new but are substantial, and their interiors reflect the constant and careful supervision they receive.

THE BURGESS OF BRISTOL

The most representative man in a representative government is the chief executive. Like every selected official under our form of government, he represents his constituents—the voters who elected him. But the man at the top is doubly representative, for in his person is represented the government itself.

In Bristol the chief executive is the Burgess. The Burgess is Clifford L. Anderson. As much as any one man can, Mr. Anderson represents the government of the Borough of Bristol. Anything that is said of that government reflects directly on him.

Here are a few of the things that can truly be said of the Borough government—

Bristol is meeting its problems of growth.

The business of the Borough is successful.

Taxes here have been reduced four times in 8 years.

Year after year the Borough meets its financial obligations promptly.

The Borough of Bristol has had no bond issue since 1932.

All these things, and many more, are to the credit of the Republican administration of the Borough. And likewise, they are to the credit of Burgess Anderson, the head of that administration for many years.

The administration's record is his record, too. He runs for re-election to the office of Burgess on a platform of achievement in that office. It is the best platform any candidate can offer.

But there is one specific qualification that is as valuable as any that a candidate for public office can possess. It is the hardest one to find, and it is the one that cannot be replaced by any substitute. This quality is Experience.

This is an attribute that Mr. Anderson possesses to the highest degree possible for the head of a government.

Clifford L. Anderson was Burgess of Bristol during the last World War. He was Burgess during the post-War period of problems and expansion. He guided the Borough through-out that era of war and what follows a war. For instance, the complications created by the annexation of the entire village of Harriman—all these, and countless other situations, were met by Burgess Anderson.

During the decade of the Turbulent Twenties when America was booming in all directions, Mr. Anderson kept the Borough of Bristol on a sane and steady course.

And during the dark days of the last ten years—when the golden bubble had burst and the nation had to tighten its belt and fight the depression—Bristol was guided through those trying times by its Burgess, Clifford L. Anderson.

Now, with a state of national emergency officially proclaimed, with the defense boom in full swing, there are prob-

DR. BOEHM'S SPEECH

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 30.—Steady improvement of the educational system of Bucks County public schools shows that it is keeping up with modern times. This was brought out in reports and addresses made yesterday at the Fall meeting of Bucks County School Directors Association held here.

That the students have advantages which they never had previously; and that taxpayers are securing more for their money than ever, were points readily seen.

It was shown that in Bucks County, under the public school system, the pupils lack practically nothing in the

MISCHIEVOUS GODS
Comes again Hallowe'en, when witches ride on broomsticks and thousands of restless little spirits come forth to have their fun at the expense of ordinary mortals.

In other days, when the gods walked with men and talked with them and left their mark on everyday life, altars smoked with offerings on each day of the year. For the great gods of the past, like the little ones of Hallowe'en, had their mischievous side. Keeping in the good graces of the divinities was a year round job in the days when Greece and Rome were great.

It is a lucky circumstance for most folk that the imps of Hallowe'en confine their activities to a few days out of the 365 days of the year. They do not seem to react to offerings and supplications as they should. They have, apparently, no kindly side. They are mischief through and through.

The uneasy householder who offers candy and popcorn and other payment for immunity, has no guarantee that his porch furniture will still be with him in the morning. The good sport who laughs at the antics of the Hallowe'en devils lays up no riches in the Hallowe'en heaven. He, too, along with the old surface down the street, may find his tires flat, his windows marked with that peculiarly indelible brand of soap or talow which only the nether regions can produce.

FRUSTRATION

Frustration seems to have possessed Japan. Confronted by the necessity of making a choice between a peaceful settlement of the Far Eastern situation with Britain and America and a move that, in all likelihood, will precipitate a war with the two nations, she cannot bring herself to a decision.

Perhaps the best illustration of Japanese nervousness is the gratuitous advice which Nippon is giving Germany. Making no attempt to conceal its motives, the Japanese press is urging Hitler to make peace with Stalin now. The reason, frankly admitted, for this counsel is Japanese fear that Germany will so weaken herself in the titanic struggle with the Soviet that even in case of a German victory Japan will be left at the mercy of the Occidental world.

The British and Dutch ban on oil shipments to Japan from the East Indies is reported to have been complete since July 26. Now it is divulged that the trickle which the United States has permitted to flow to Japan after President Roosevelt froze Japanese assets and imposed embargoes on certain oil exports has been stopped altogether. This means that Tokyo can rely only on oil supplies from the few producing regions she controls, unquestionably inadequate for her war needs.

NEW AND DIFFERENT

There are several details that give this house its unusual appearance. It is built on a hill, allowing space for a two-car garage at the street level, and extra living space on the first floor. The vertical siding topped by a conventional type; the large, centrally located casement window, and the recessed front entrance complete the design.

Inside, this house reverts to a more conventional plan, except for the extra bedroom and bath over the garage. The first floor follows a standard pattern, providing a large living room with an open fireplace, dining room, and a scientifically planned kitchen. Upstairs, there is one large bedroom for the parents and a small one for children.

SENATE STENOGRAPHER by MAXWELL THAYER

CHAPTER THIRTY

Gale went to the door and opened it wide for the bulky man to enter. "Hello, Nash," said Cedric Colburn, tossing his hat on an end table, and then turned to Gale, who pointed to the chair that Joe had used.

For a minute the two men attempted to scowl each other down. It was Gale who broke up the eye duel with, "Don't act like a pair of strange bulldogs."

Both looked at her. Colburn chuckled. Joe smiled.

"Let's get off on the right foot," Gale went on, seating herself beside Joe, and putting a hand in his. "Cedric, before you say anything—and you must have come here for some purpose—let me tell you my position. From now on, I'm with Joe first, last and always."

Joe patted her hand and Colburn looked at their hands.

"I'd be a blind man," he said, and turned back to the fire, "if I didn't see that. Too bad, too bad."

"Why's it too bad?" Joe was readying to fight again.

"Oh, keep your shirt on, Joe," Colburn said. "You aren't scaring anybody."

When Nash would have added a word or two, Gale squeezed his hand and he remained silent.

Colburn continued: "What I was about to say was that I admired Gale—I think admire must be the word—more than anyone of her sex than I've met in a long time. She's a rare combination of beauty and brains. We could have gone a long way together," he turned and looked at Joe, "if you hadn't come along."

Gale smiled, that little wisp of a twist to her lips again. "I know you mean that as a compliment," she said, "and I thank you."

There was another heavy silence. All of them looked at the fire. Gale sought for some way to break the growing tension as Cedric waited to make known the purpose of his visit.

"I'm going to tell you something for your own good," Colburn said. He got up and walked to the side of the fireplace, then faced them. "The Murray bill has been signed!"

If he expected surprise to show on their faces, he was disappointed. "I planned that bill and I executed it and although you, Nash, and others tried to stop me, I put it across," he waited for the effect again, but there was none.

"Perhaps you'd be interested to know that my fee for that bill was $55,000. The five odd was expenses, part of which you got, Gale," he waited again.

This time Gale spoke. "That reminds me," she said, "I have a present for you."

"A present?" Colburn was dumbfounded. He didn't understand.

"Pardon me," she said, "I'll get it." Gale got up and went into the bedroom. In a minute she returned and walked straight to the big man by the fireplace. "Here," she said, handing him a key.

"What's that?"

"The key to the safety deposit vault in the First National Bank."

You'll find in it all the money you ever gave me." He dropped the key into his pocket. "Here," she said, unstrapping the wrist watch, "is something else." She handed him the watch.

"I don't get it," he said, "you earned that trinket and the cash." "I won't have when this thing is all over," she said.

"But it is all over." He searched her face. Her smile bothered him. "Maybe I better have a drink."

Gale turned to Nash. "How about you, Joe?"

"Sure," he said, "I like the way this is going. I'll have one with you. I'll even drink with Colburn." "Darn nice of you," Colburn cooed.

Gale went to the kitchen to mix drinks.

"You know," Colburn went on, "I used to have a complex like yours but I got over it."

"Interesting," Nash said. Colburn paid no attention. "As you know, I started at the bottom."

"Like most successful men," Nash interposed.

"And I worked my way up," Colburn continued as though nothing had been said. "I could see what was going on and I could see no reason why I shouldn't take advantage of it."

"Why don't you skip it, Colburn," Joe said. "I know your history."

Colburn turned and looked at his enemy, for Joe was definitely that. "I don't think you do. Did you ever know that I went hungry when I was a little boy? Did you ever know that I sold newspapers on a corner? No, you didn't and there are a lot of other things you didn't and don't know about me. You're so smug and righteous you give me a pain."

"We look at a man, I guess," Joe said, and it wasn't sarcasm now, "and judge him by what he is, not what he's gone through."

"A man is a product of what he has gone through, just as steel is the product of tempering," Colburn replied.

Gale came in with the drinks, handed one to Colburn, one to Joe and seated herself beside Nash.

"Cedric," she said, raising her glass, "here's to your luck, you're going to need it."

He didn't know what she meant. He thought perhaps she meant that he wasn't going to have her help. He liked her egotism, so he raised his glass.

They drank and watched the fire and looked at one another. These three people were caught in a spell. Gale's eyes sparkled as if she were a diva waiting for her opening, her grand entrance and the climax it would bring.

She was in no mood to rush things. Colburn had a piece to speak.

Although the background for this story is authentic, the story itself is entirely fictional and the characters are imaginary. Any similarity of names or characters to real persons, living or dead, is purely accidental.

Co. Educational System Keeping Up To Times

line of health, educational and actional medical assistance, that can be found in public schools in the metropolitan centers.

One of the speakers, Dr. L. E. Driver, formerly head of the department of education of the Department of Public Instruction, at Harrisburg, Pa., who is now retired, said that he wished the school directors were better protected from a lot of the nuisances of the tenure law.

Speaking of schools suffering "from the top," Dr. Driver said: "I cannot see why in some places elementary schools have an eight-months term and high schools a nine-months term. I never could see why a grade teacher's salary is any less than that of a high school teacher. Our high schools quite often put on too big a show."

Dr. Driver cited one instance where a high school in one district in the State could not raise $300 toward a library, but they did raise the same amount of money to buy an electric clock that would flash red when the basketball periods were up.

"I believe in high school athletics don't get me wrong—but not in high school football," Dr. Driver explained. "But there was something wrong with the school that could raise money for a flashing clock and not a library. I know you will call me old-fashioned, some of you, but take it from a veteran with 29 years' acquaintance with the schools."

Dr. Driver called attention to the fact that reading in the public schools is about as poorly taught as anything. Many teachers have difficulty in getting reading across in the proper manner. He cited figures of the employment office of a central Pennsylvania airport, where 50 per cent of the applicants for jobs have been turned down recently because they could not read properly.

Dr. Driver highly commended the Bucks County School Directors' Association for authorizing the teaching of local history in the school of the county.

"Local history is a hobby of mine and I say amen to the progress you are now making here in Bucks county. Let the children of Bucks county know what this great county has contributed and likewise the children of other counties will learn more about Bucks."

A fine tribute was paid by the educator to County Superintendent of Schools Charles H. Boehm, of Morrisville. "I happen to be in the know and I'm telling you now, if you don't know it, your present County Superintendent Boehm was offered a very fine place in the Department of Public Instruction and you came near not getting him," Dr. Driver remarked. "You are to be congratulated in Bucks county on the progressive county office and leadership of Superintendent Boehm."

Superintendent Boehm introduced to the directors at the afternoon session, additional members of the county board staff. They include Dr. Ruth Fodder, of Indiana, who will be here after November 1st in charge of special work in connection with the schools; William Gracey, Doylestown, well-known author, now with the Federal Writers' Project, engaged in writing the Bucks county history text books for the county schools; and Mrs. Eleanor Geiger, of the N. Y. A. defense program.

Bucks county's educational program was discussed by Superintendent Boehm, who said that Dr. Driver's ideas about education still are the outstanding viewpoints of his office here in Bucks county. Superintendent Boehm said that the work in the county during the past nine months since he has been in office has been very pleasant. Then he informed the directors of some of the things to be stressed in safe education in the county, including children walking improperly on the highways and improper riding of bicycles.

Speaking of teachers and their civil responsibilities, Superintendent Boehm said that school boards should see to it that "all teachers are active in at least one community organization, that all teachers be registered, and that they vote always in regular elections."

Superintendent Boehm outlined the types of services rendered by the county staff to school boards. He also listed the percentage of unpaid real estate taxes in certain districts for 1940-41. Best records in the county are as follows: Wycombe, five per cent; Bridgeton, Lower Makefield, Richlandtown, six per cent; Chalfont, Perkasie, Quakertown, seven per cent; Bedminster, Dublin, Newtown, eight per cent; Sellersville, Wrightstown, nine per cent; Riegelsville, 10 per cent; Buckingham, Langhorne Manor, New Britain township, Newtown township, Silverdale, Solebury, Tinticon, 11 per cent.

Poorest records in unpaid real estate taxes were cited as follows: Bristol township 28 per cent; East Rockhill, Lower Southampton, Middletown, New Britain township, Warwick, 21 per cent; Warmistler, 20 per cent.

The best records on percentage of per capita tax collected 1940-41: Sellersville, 92 per cent; Trumbauersville, 90 per cent; Wycombe, Riegelsville, 89 per cent. The poorest: Bristol township, 40 per cent; South Langhorne, 42 per cent; Halmesville, 56 per cent; Springfield, 58 per cent.

New educational legislation was discussed by Preston Van Ness, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania School Directors' Association, who was introduced by Dr. W. A. Roberts, of Newtown, past president of the association.

To Stress Patriotism And Also Education

Education Association, will stress education and patriotism. The November 1941 program will start at eight o'clock and feature small plays by members of the elementary grades, bands and the high school orchestra. Plans are under way to have the Community Chorus also participate.

School authorities have planned no special programs other than the one, but invite parents to visit the schools anytime during that week and observe the work in the various classes.

Members of the faculty committee making the plans include Horace M. Hutchinson, chairman; and Adelaide Kohl, Myra and Mildred Arms, and Mary Broome.

Cornwells Guild Has A Total of 1316 Garments

Mrs. Frank Simons presided at the meeting, the speaker addressing the 50 present being Miss Sellers of the Christ Home, Warmistler.

A number of garments donated by local guild members are sent each year to this home, as well as to other institutions and given to private cases. Miss Sellers told how the Christ Home was started, and informed of its splendid growth, all work being carried out on faith. She mentioned how a Dr. Edinger, poor as a lad, had determined that if ever possible he would open a home for destitute children. His plan reached fruition, and in a small house in Philadelphia children from the slum areas were cared for. The work grew, with the result that the home was moved twice to other structures in Philadelphia, later being taken to Warmistler, Bucks county.

The sum of $200 was made as a down payment on the Warmistler home, with $2000 being due in 30 days. Throughout the month the workers resorted to prayer, hoping for the receipt of needed funds, and on the 30th day a gift of $2000 was received. Much repair work and enlarging has been carried out at the home, this being possible through contributions of friends. Some years later a man willed the officials of Christ Home his residence located at Paradise. The latter place houses 19 children, and the one at Warmistler cares for 140. School classes, grades one to eight, inclusive, are maintained; and all of the 55 workers in the two homes are volunteers, serving without remuneration. At the age of 18 years the children are discharged from the home, positions being secured for them.

The garments of all types yesterday were of fine quality; and 14 pairs of shoes were received through the new home department of the guild.

The guild has 14 directors. At the meeting the report of the secretary, Mrs. J. William Simons, as read by her daughter, Mrs. C. Burnley White, Mrs. Alma Becker gave the report of the condition of the treasury, and Miss Isabelle Jones, resident of the Labrador Branch, which branch collects garments in the spring to send to Labrador, gave her report.

Mrs. Otto Grupp, Jr., of Croydon, favored with two vocal solos, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Where Father Today?"

Officers elected following the exhibit include: President, Mrs. Frank Simons; vice-presidents, Mrs. Edward Vansant, Mrs. Albert Brown, Mrs. Albert Stiles; secretary, Mrs. J. William Simons; treasurer, Mrs. Alma Becker; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Helen Mielke.

COMMUNICATION

U. S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 27, 1941.

The Bristol Courier.

To The Editor:

I thought it might interest you to know that we fellows in the service appreciate the "Bristol Courier." The "home town news" is certainly of interest to us. I know Raymond Tomlinson and myself readily enjoy it.

Just this week in our station "movie" auditorium a short subject on motorcycle racing and riding devoted much time to the Langhorne Speedway motorcycle classic. Among some very interesting scenes were those of the Croydon Rescue Squad and the outstanding familiar face was none other than Mr. Jesse Carr, who is known for his splendid work with the Rescue Squad; and the Bristol Blood Donors' Emergency Squad.

Keep up the swell work!

Sincerely,

PAUL VANDEGRIFT,

Asks Re-Election

William H. Pearson

Pearson is the son of Robert and Bertha Pearson. After attending the Bristol schools, he continued his education in Philadelphia, where he was graduated from the Friends Central School and from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science.

Trained as a chemist, Mr. Pearson entered the employ of the Rohm & Haas Chemical Company eighteen years ago and has worked there ever since.

He married Miss Marian E. DeLong in Bristol sixteen years ago. They are the parents of two children.

Mr. Pearson is a member of the Bristol Lodge, No. 970, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. He serves on the house committee and on the membership committee of the Lodge. He is also a member of the Friends Central School Alumni Association and of the alumni of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science. He attends the Episcopal Church.

He was appointed to the Borough Council late in 1937 to fill the unexpired term of Edgar Spencer, who moved from this district shortly after his re-election to the Council from the sixth ward. Mr. Pearson is now serving on two committees—the Municipal Water Supply Committee and the Fire Protection Committee. He is a candidate for election to the Council from the sixth ward on his record of service in the Council for almost a full four-year term.

pointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank Pfeiffer.

Mr. Rathke was born in Bristol on October 4, 1894, the son of the late Gustav A. and the late Augusta Rathke. After attending the local schools, he spent fourteen months in the U. S. Army during the World War, serving with the Personnel Detachment, Headquarters Company, of the 79th Division.

For more than 15 years he has been an electrical contractor here, and before that, had been employed as an electrician in the Grundy mill and also, at other times, by two Philadelphia concerns.

On December 3, 1919, Mr. Rathke married Miss Susie H. Smoyer in Bristol. They are the parents of three daughters.

He is a member of the Bristol lodges of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, of the Free and Accepted Masons, and of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Mr. Rathke is chairman of the Sea Scout committee of the Elks, and is a member of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, of the American Legion, of which he is past commander. He is also district deputy of the 9th Legion District. He attends the Methodist Church.

Full of enthusiasm for everything he undertakes, he is known in this vicinity for his participation in amateur theatricals and entertainment.

In the Borough Council Mr. Rathke now serves on the Street and Highway Committee and on the Public Works Committee. He is a candidate for election from the sixth ward to the Council on the basis of the interest and ability he already has shown for public service.

lems to be met everywhere. Here in Bristol the Burgess must meet them.

No responsibly managed private industry ever would think of releasing an executive who had the very qualities and the exact experience that present problems demand. Why should a public enterprise like the Borough of Bristol adopt a different attitude?

What can possibly be gained by dropping overboard the veteran pilot, the one man with the knowledge that is so desperately needed in the days that are coming?

These are times for wise and practiced hands to be at the controls. Bristol has such leadership now. It should retain it. Experimenting in storms is dangerous, and more than that, it is senseless.

The Borough has been fortunate in having a leading citizen like Clifford L. Anderson. He has served long and ably in the office of Burgess, a position with no salary. For a successful businessman of Mr. Anderson's capacity to devote so much of his life to the service of his community is more than unusual—it is a testimonial to Mr. Anderson's ideal of citizenship.

Every citizen should do his share—and Mr. Anderson always has done and always will do his. That is why the voters of the Borough should re-elect him on Tuesday as Burgess—the post for which he is again a candidate.

THE COUNTY HOME

In the hospital building, for example, all the upper floors have recently been completely renovated, and the cellar is now concrete. From the cellar up, the building is spotlessly clean and provides the comforts and conveniences found in the best-administered hospitals. It includes wards for both men and women, for both the sick and the mentally deficient.

The washing for the Home is done in a completely-equipped laundry building behind the hospital, which contributes still further to the self-sufficiency of the institution.

The visitor comes away convinced that the inmates of the Bucks County Home are receiving the best of attention in the most healthful surroundings. That is the primary purpose of the institution. But he is likewise convinced that not a penny is wasted at the Home, that it feeds itself, and has an income from its surplus products that can match that of any similar institution.

What is the point of all this? To the taxpayer and the voter, a visit to the County Home is a lesson in the kind of public service provided for many years by Republican administration. It is doing an excellent job of taking care of the unfortunate, the aged and the infirm, and through wise supervision it is doing it with a minimum of expense to the county.

The County Home, in this sense, typifies the whole Republican administration of county affairs—a necessary job, done efficiently and economically.

COMMUNITY FAIR WILL BE HELD AT SELL-PERK

Three Classes of Art To Be Scheduled; Also A Hobby
Show

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

PERKASIE, Oct. 30.—A community fair is planned for November 13th and 14th at the Sellersville-Perkasie high school, and since the definite decision was reached to conduct such, interest has grown so that it is believed the fair will far surpass expectations.

From many sources came inquiries concerning the plans together with suggestions that the exhibit include departments not embodied in the original plans. As a result of this public interest three departments already have been added to the original plans and another possibly will be added.

In addition to the farm garden, orchard and poultry products departments there will be a competitive exhibit of art, amateur photography and a hobby show.

Miss Bartlett, in charge of art at the Sell-Perk schools, will have charge of this department. This will be an opportunity for the people of the community to see what the next door neighbor paints, for the fun of it, in his spare time.

The exhibition of oil paintings will be one of the three classifications of art to be shown for competition at the school and farm show. The others will be one each from the two art classes in high school, fine art and related or practical art.

The hobby exhibit, as planned, will provide a place for virtually everything produced by human hands. Robert Brown, head of the industrial arts department of the Sell-Perk schools, will have charge of this department. He solicits the co-operation of all in making this department an outstanding feature of the fair.

Perkasie Camera Club is co-operating with school authorities in promoting the exhibit of amateur photography. The field of subjects is almost unlimited and with public co-operation this department should attract hundreds of exhibits.

SAGGING SPRINGS NO HELP TO GOOD, RESTFUL SLUMBER

By Miss Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative)
What is a comfortable bed? One that contributes to restful sleep, good posture, and the maintenance of good health.

Type and quality of the bedspring determine the comfort of a bed. There are three types of springs: the open coil, the box, and the fabric.

Open coil bedsprings generally are the most desirable. The large conical coils should be set into strong frames and held together by small cylindrical spring ties. The thickness of the wires, and the diameter, shape and number of coils are important in determining the comfort and durability. Ninety-nine coils of No. 10, 11, or 12 gauge wire for a properly designed, full-sized spring, will give an excellent foundation for a bed.

A more resilient but also more expensive spring may be one made of wire (about 280) and smaller coils less than three inches in diameter of a lighter gauge wire, about No. 15.

Box springs are more expensive and harder to clean, especially if they become vermin infested. Unless of unusually high quality, box springs do not yield much to the shape of the body.

Fabric springs are made of linked wire or steel ribbons or continuously intersecting spiral springs. They sag like a hammock under the weight of the body and are not only uncomfortable but not conducive to good posture.

A good spring holds the mattress level and does not sag when the bed is occupied. Neither does it sway from side to side, yet it has a desirable up and down resiliency. The frame is strong and all parts assembled so that squeaking and scraping sounds are eliminated.

Before buying, you can test a spring by moving the various parts with your hand and listening closely for any slight noises. However, this test is not a guarantee that there will be no noises after the spring has been used.

After 40—To Enjoy Life More GIVE LIVER BILE FLOW A BOOST--

Start Tomorrow Morning and Keep
This Up for 30 Days

Normally the liver should discharge about a quart of digestion-aiding bile juices a day. If it doesn't—a scanty flow—may mean Sick Headaches, so-called—Biliousness, Poor Digestion, with that half-sick, tired, all-gone
feeling and most probably Constipation.
There's no need to take Calomel or other risky drugs. Just take a little daily dose of that world-famous Kruschen Salts—half a level teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water about half an hour before breakfast.
This rouses the flow of bile with its gentle bowel action. Try it for 30 days and you too may shake off that "rundown" feeling and get a real "lift."
But don't start unless you are willing to keep it up for 30 days. If then you do not feel 100% better get your money back. Morry's Co., Rt. 2, N. J., United

WHY IT IS TO YOUR INTEREST TO VOTE THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

There must be a reason why the people of Bucks County have for many years, entrusted the management of the County affairs to the Republican party.

The principal reason is, that the Republican Party has always nominated men and women for the County offices, of the highest integrity and ability, who personally manage and discharge the duties of their respective offices with the assistance of capable deputies and clerks, of whom no more are employed than actually necessary. You will find no "drones" in any of the County buildings where the County business is conducted. No elected Republican official has ever been charged with any scandal or misbehavior in office.

This policy has resulted in an economical and well managed administration of County affairs, whereby the County tax rate has been kept within four mills, one of the lowest tax rates in all of the 67 counties in Pennsylvania.

Compare the tax rate and bonded indebtedness of Bucks County with just a few of the other counties in the State.

| COUNTY | TAX RATE (MILLS) | BONDED INDEBTEDNESS |
|----------------|---------------------|------------------------|
| BUCKS | 4 | $ 96,000.00 |
| Beaver | 10 | $4,453,000.00 |
| Bradford | 18 | $ 384,000.00 |
| Carbon | 13 | $1,970,000.00 |
| Clearfield | 24 | $ 735,000.00 |
| Fayette | 14 | $3,665,000.00 |
| Northampton | 9 | $8,529,000.00 |
| Northumberland | 13 | $ 694,000.00 |

The above figures are impressive these days when public debts are climbing from day to day. They summarize in cold figures the business-like efficiency that has governed the Republican administration of the affairs of Bucks County for years. Such evidence does not appeal to the emotions of the voters and taxpayers. It is convincing to their business sense and the results are apparent in their pocketbooks. That is the best kind of evidence of good government any political party can offer.

This year the Republican party again presents to the voters of Bucks County, intelligent, capable and industrious candidates for the various county offices whose names appear below.

Vote for them on November 4th next, for continued efficient and economical administration of County affairs.

Nation's Health Deemed Vital For Defense

The whole world is becoming food conscious. In Europe, the food shortage and the danger of starvation threatening entire populations have made food one of the implements of war. In this country, where fortunately there is plenty of food, we are learning that it can be one of our best weapons of defense. For nourishing food is the basis of good health, and good health is very important to the workers in our defense program, whether they are soldiers in training or industrial workers or the great mass of people who make up our nation.

The government is seeing to it that the men in training are fed adequate, well-balanced rations. It is the duty of every homemaker to see that her family is given the right selection of food to guard against any danger of malnutrition and the train of ills it may bring.

An adequate supply of meat is important in the diet because meat supplies high quality protein, minerals, notably iron and phosphorus, and is a source of that essential vitamin B-1 or thiamine, which we hear so much about these days, and all the other B vitamins, too. Vegetables, cooked and uncooked, fruits, cereals and dairy products all contribute essential food elements. A well-balanced diet must include all of these.

Thrifty buying is necessary when the food budget is limited. The wide variety of meat cuts is a great help in this respect for the food value of all cuts is approximately the same and the less demanded portions can be used to keep the budget in balance. Vegetables and fruits in season should be given preference so that a plentiful supply is obtained at bargain prices.

Economy cuts of meat are especially well suited for cooking with vegetables because both are cooked in moist heat. This main dish, suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist, will provide many of the essential food elements for the day.

Veal and Ham Pot-pie

2 pounds veal shoulder
1/2 pound smoked ham
1/2 cup finely sliced onion
3 cups diced potatoes
1/2 cup sliced celery
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper
Pastry or baking powder biscuits

Cut the meat into 1-inch cubes. Roll in flour and brown in hot lard. Put this, together with vegetables, into buttered baking dish. Season with salt and pepper and Worcester-

B-1 or thiamine, which we hear so much about these days, and all the Top with baking powder biscuits or pastry crust and return to moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) until the top is baked.

Serve mixed vegetable salad, stewed fruit for dessert, and milk as the beverage.

PROBLEM SOLDIER

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La. (INS)—The Army is having more than a little difficulty outfitting a six foot, seven inch draftee at Camp Claiborne, especially in the matter of beds. Private Joseph Sonntag of St. Paul, Minn., is the problem soldier. Some time after induction he finally succeeded in securing shoes, size 14. Other wearing apparel was easier to procure. But a canvass of the camp failed to reveal a bed that would accommodate his length. Meanwhile, Private Sonntag is "roughing it" in the full sense of the term.

TOLEDO "WEATHERWOMAN"

TOLEDO, O. (INS)—Toledo now has a "weatherwoman," the second lady to take a job with the U. S. weather bureau since such jobs were open to women a year ago. She is Miss Gwyneth Phillips, 23, daughter of the head of the physics department at Marietta College, Marietta, O. Miss Phillips took a civil service examination in Cleveland two years ago, passed, and after taking additional examinations in meteorology, she was given the appointment.

EFFECT OF INCREASING SPEEDS ON MILEAGE LIFE OF TIRES

Tread rubber wears out at a normal rate at 30-mile-an-hour average driving speeds. Higher speeds burn up the rubber faster, thus reducing mileage life of tires. To help motorists conserve rubber for national defense needs, tire development engineers of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company are releasing the above data to show that excessive wear at 40 miles per hour is equivalent to a waste of 22 per cent of the normal tread mileage. At 50 miles per hour, the waste rubber is almost double that sacrificed at the 40-mile-per-hour speed. Normal speeds mean normal wear and low mileage cost of tires.

BENSALEM GIRLS LOSE AFTER TAKING 17 STRAIGHT GAMES

Go Down To Blistering Defeat
At the Hands of Newtown

FINAL SCORE IS 1 TO 0

Newtown Girls Surprise
Followers By Defeating
Strong Rivals

NEWTOWN, Oct. 30—Well, it has happened here.

After seventeen straight victories extending over two seasons, the Bensalem girls' hockey team went down to a blistering defeat. The defeat was handed to them by one of the "soft spots" in the schedule, Newtown High School. Final score was 1-0.

Before the tilt not many of the fans could have imagined that the Newtowners would have a chance against Coach Helen Smith's array of 1941 hockey stars. Only the day before, Bensalem had eliminated a strong contending team like Buckingham and took the lead in the Lower Bucks County loop.

But the Squaws went to work and before the first half was in its mid-way stage, a goal was scored by Lownes. This proved to be the only score of the tilt as both clubs were held scoreless for the remainder of the tilt.

Lownes' goal was manufactured with the aid of a pass from the stick of the left wing, Smith. Lownes was in the striking circle when she received the pass and batted the pellet past Vanzant.

Bensalem had many opportunities to score as they kept the ball down in Newtown's territory most of the afternoon but when the necessary plays were needed, the team failed to click in unison and many of their short and long corner shots went for naught.

In the second period, the Owlettes worked the ball to within the Newtown scoring posts and Gail King made a quick pass to Eleanor Hughes who batted the ball swiftly but the alert Newtown goal-keeper, Blinn, was on the job and knocked the ball away from danger.

The defeat was a disastrous blow to the Bensalem pennant hopes as a New Hope victory over Buckingham would place the former team in undisputed possession of first place, while a victory for Buckingham would mean a triple deadlock for first place with the teams being Bensalem, New Hope and Buckingham.

Coach Helen Smith was dismayed at the failure of her team to click for the first time this season and feels that her girls were over-confident against the Newtown team, especially after their one-sided triumph over Buckingham on Tuesday.

FALLSINGTON IS LIGHT, FAST AND SCRAPPY

By Jack Gill

There was a crisp nip about the Fall air as Johnny Mansmann plunged his way off-tackle like a battering ram for 40 long yards. The few leading spectators who were hanging around Fallsington's football field let out more than a slight whimper.

It was just another play in a hotly contested scrimmage between the varsity and the second stringers.

Things are happening this year at the Orange building. For one thing, it's revival year.

Tearing and clawing their way to three victories over Langhorne twice, St. Francis and the Trenton Sophomores, the team still has a long way to go. The rocky road lying ahead features Bensalem, Newtown and Lamberville.

For a small school, there isn't a cough in any of those carloads. Many a home will be bruised, many a heart broken and many a tear or smile shed.

But up until now Mike DeRisi and Fallsington have drawn the plaudits of the crowd. Light, fast and scrappy, the Falcons are a well drilled unit and a tribute to the coaching ability of DeRisi.

Fallsington this year isn't just playing lucky. They are operating mostly from a punt formation. But anything is liable to happen. They have several pet plays that develop into many angles. And they have the boys with the will to carry out their assignments.

DeRisi played football at Bristol High School and is far from being a "book coach." While at the Cardinal and Grey school he played under Roy Hoffman and Ken Townsend. At West Chester State Teacher's College, he participated on the tutors' only state winning squad, the 1933 aggregation. Here he had the benefit, or harm—he still doesn't know which—of three different mentors, McGovern, Conner and Wescott taught football there then and were followed by Glen Killinger. DeRisi believes he got more practical experience at St. Ann's than anywhere else when he led the Purple and Gold to an unbeaten year following his graduation.

Entire Fallsington is football minded after a two year lay-off. The school is among the smallest in student enrollment in the district. But out of approximately 75 boys, DeRisi has 45 playing football each evening.

The Orange may or may not crumble when they hit Newtown and Bensalem. But one thing is certain, they're playing their hearts out for a small school championship. Both the boys and the coaches haven't left a stone unturned. They're even calling defensive plays upon occasion to order to upset the enemy's attack.

THIEF MAKES AMENDS

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—An Indian giver in reverse was the thief who visited Dr. T. W. Snipes' car while he had it parked in a Pasadena parking lot.

The first time the thief took a cigar lighter from the Snipes' car, and left the radio "out of commission," after trying to remove it. Several nights later, the lighter was returned and the radio had been fixed. Dr. Snipes tabs him as a conscience-stricken thief with an unusual sense of humor.
